A Message from Mayor Walker

Greetings from the Mayor's Office,

I am proud of the Boaz School System, and how they have taken on the responsibility to publicize this community newsletter. There are always things going on in Boaz, and I believe "The Hook" will help spread the message of all the community's events. This is also a great way for students to be involved in "real world" work. Thank you to Mr. Minnick and Mrs. Willis for their forward thinking and for putting this together. I will look forward each month to getting the community news about Boaz.

The Mayor's Office has been busy through the holiday season dealing with issues surrounding the closing of the Pilgrim's Pride Plant and the loss of 1100+ jobs. I met with Governor Robert Bentley recently about ideas to help the community combat this job loss. It was a very uplifting meeting, and I left with the assurance that the State of Alabama is about to get very aggressive in helping assure that we have good jobs in Boaz. It was in a sermon from my church a few weeks ago that helped me to realize what a great community we live in. In a nut shell the message was: not to worry about the things that you do not have and to focus on the good things we do have. It helped me to think about things like the growth we have seen in Boaz through annexations of property, and economic engines like a great school system, a great hospital in Marshall Medical Center South, Snead State Community College, and also a diversified industrial base. As always, it is important to support local business to help them through tough times.

There will be challenging days ahead for Boaz, but I know how great this area is, and I know our best days are ahead of us. Stay tuned to "The Hook" for further plans from your city government, and as always your ideas are welcome because that is how you build a great community.

Boaz Elementary School

Boaz Elementary School is busy with many literacy activities. Students recently enjoyed a visit from Author, David M. Sargent and his amazing dogs. Mr. Sargent has been traveling all over the United States for the last 18 years promoting reading and story writing.

The visit from Mr. Sargent was so successful, and inspired so many students to ask questions about becoming an author, that BES is now on a mission to bring another author to our school. Children's author Jan Brett is a longtime favorite of students around the country, and our school would love to have her visit. If you would like to help us, please follow the directions below.

Simply go to Jan Brett's Facebook page from your computer, click the link to enter, and list Boaz Elementary School in the comments section.

Corley Elementary School

Corley is a place where "learning is infectious, energizing, and humanizing" (Knight, 2011, p. 45). During our first semester at CES, we have been digging into the College-and-Career Readiness Standards for teachers and students, and we have had the opportunities for our students and teachers to participate in "Teach Like a Pirate Day," build Corley's "Scarecrow Row," and vote for Claire in the Uncle Ben's program titled "Ben's Beginners Cooking contest."

We are looking forward to the spring semester where we are looking for new ways to make real world connections to our classrooms. We are hoping to extend learning opportunities in the afternoons through an after-school tutoring program for students wishing to participate, and we are exploring the idea of incorporating after-school enrichment activities as well. If you would like more information on what is happening at Corley, please email Ashley Walls at awalls@boazk12.org or visit us on Facebook by simply searching Corley Elementary School.

Boaz Intermediate School

Keeping It Real at BIS

As a school, one of our goals this year is to extend student learning in such a way that students see how the skills and knowledge they acquire at school apply to the real world.

Fifth Grade students recently completed a unit of study where they took on the role of aspiring restaurant owners. Students had to determine what kitchen equipment to buy and calculate the costs. They also studied foods from different cultures, explored the science behind industrial-sized kitchen equipment, and prepared a presentation in the hopes of having their business venture approved and funded.

Every subject area was touched upon through this unit of study. Students had to read, research, calculate, problem solve, write, organize, and present.

Boaz Middle School

Renee Adams and her advanced science class are having success in the BHS greenhouse. This aquaponics class received donations from Gadsden State. The first set of fish arrived a few weeks ago: tilapia and catfish. The students put out plants at the first of the school year before the arrival of the fish.

Aquaponics uses fish waste as fertilizer to grow plants. This high-quality fertilizer shortens the growing time of the plants. The process teaches a different way to raise crops. According to Adams, this is a sustainable form of food and will play a major role in the future of farming. Not only will this hands-on class teach students about chemistry, agriculture and aquaculture, but also body systems and biology. The students will be able to compare humans to fish because the functions are similar in both.

The students will be rewarded at the end of the year with a fish fry including tomatoes, spinach, lettuce, cabbage, mustard, parsley and tender green, which they grew themselves.

Boaz High School

A MESSAGE FROM OUR NEW PRINCIPAL, GARY MINNICK.
Happy New Year

Get your free Boaz
App today at the APP Store

Serving as principal of Boaz High has been a wonderful experience so far, and there are exciting things in store for 2014 and beyond. I have been so pleased with the quality of the faculty and students, as well as parent and community support. There are many people who deserve much credit for what I have inherited. Nevertheless, it is the job of any leader to take steps toward a new and higher level of excellence.

Most of you have heard that BHS is moving toward an academy structure. The primary goal of this is to prepare students for college and career by helping them see a direct connection between school and their future occupation. Students will choose a career pathway (essentially a high school "major") from fields of employment that the research says are growing in our area. In addition to traditional coursework, students will work on progressively more complex projects recommended by experts in their chosen career. Students completing a BHS career pathway will graduate with certified skills and/or a specified number of college credits in their area of concentration. Please check our website (<http://boazhs.ss3.sharpschool.com>) periodically for important updates on academies.

I am also excited about this and future editions of "THE HOOK", a collaborative effort of Boaz High School and the Boaz Chamber of Commerce. Students in Mrs. Willis' business tech and multimedia classes will produce this newsletter using content submitted by the Chamber, the city, and all schools in Boaz, including SSCC. Especially important is the monthly calendar, which is designed to keep everyone up to date on events happening in Boaz. Ultimately, we hope this will result in more attendance at school and community events, increased civic pride, and a boost to our economy. Remember, when you shop in Boaz, you support jobs, families, and schools in Boaz. So, buy Boaz! -Gary Minnick

A Message from the BCSG Superintendent

The term "leadership" is difficult to define. Is it possible that you are born a leader? Or, do you emerge as a leader based on knowledge and experience? Personally, I think leadership is a little of both. Here are seven definitions of leadership by some outstanding leaders:

1. The key to successful leadership today is influence, not authority. —Kenneth Blanchard
2. A true leader has the confidence to stand alone, the courage to make tough decisions, and the compassion to listen to the needs of others. He does not set out to be a leader, but becomes one by the equality of his actions and the integrity of his intent. —Douglas MacArthur
3. Do what you feel in your heart to be right—for you'll be criticized anyway. —Eleanor Roosevelt
4. True leadership lies in guiding others to success. In ensuring that everyone is performing at their best, doing the work they are pledged to do and doing it well. —Bill Owens
5. You don't lead by hitting people over the head—that's assault, not leadership. —Dwight Eisenhower
6. A good leader is a person who takes a little more than his share of the blame and a little less than his share of the credit. —John Maxwell
7. The first responsibility of a leader is to define reality. The last is to say thank you. In between, the leader is a servant. —Max DePree

As superintendent of the Boaz City School System, my definition of leadership is to "Serve others, smile often, compromise when necessary, stand firm on principle, and forgive often". -Dr. Mark Isley

Snead State Community College

Snead State Community College strives to provide a complete college experience for its approximately 2,300 students. Students have the convenience of taking on-campus classes at the Boaz campus and the Arab Instructional Site, but many students also take advantage of the College's growing online education programs. Forty percent of Snead State's credit hour production can be attributed to online classes.

Snead State offers Associate in Science and Associate in Applied Science degrees as well as certificates through the Career Technical Programs, such as Child Development, Computer Science and Electronic Engineering Technology. A new AAS degree program recently implemented is Business Management, a degree that can be earned entirely online or through a combination of on-campus and online courses. Students pursuing the AAS in Business Management can choose among multiple concentrations within the program that provide short-term certificates, including General Business, Accounting Technology, Finance, Logistics, Distribution and Purchasing, Management, Marketing, Agri-business, Healthcare Management, and Childcare Management. Each concentration is a field with high employment and high demand.

Snead State students are encouraged to make the most of their college experience by participating in student activities, such as student clubs and organizations, athletic events, social events and enrichment programs. The College also has an active Alumni Association for those who attended or graduated from Snead and for those who support the College as "alumni by choice."

The community is invited to visit Snead State. The College offers a variety of community events to bring visitors to campus, such as athletic events, the Gerhart Chamber Music Festival, music performances, and theatre productions.
